

You may have noticed that the Insurance Providers for Overseas Coverage page on travel.state.gov has changed! Why the change?

The webpage revamp is part of a larger effort by the ACS Health Working Group to review and refresh all health related pages on travel.state.gov. After much deliberation, it was decided that managing an outdated list of private medical travel insurance and medical evacuation providers was not a useful tool for post or the public. The companies listed did not reflect the number of providers offered and searches through Google or aggregate insurance websites showed more comprehensive information on available insurance carriers and plans. To avoid duplication of efforts, the ACS Health Working Group decided to use the webpage to explain the importance of obtaining medical travel insurance and the kind of coverage to consider. Travelers can use the information to find insurance that meets their needs.

Where do we find information on medical evacuation providers?
